Research has shown the chest is the dynamic focal point the power center of the physique, around which your entire bodybuilding program can be structured. If your chest is small or scrawny, body development can be slow, almost never ending. When your chest becomes big other muscles can be built up superfast! A big chest first! Always!

Research shows people usually judge a guy by the size of his chest Why—? Look around Do guys parade about town in swim suits? No! Everybody wears clothes. While your other muscles can be hidden under clothing, a big chest stands out at first glance Your stomach, thigh and leg muscles can be concealed under pants. BATTLE OF THE BULGE

General Halftrack was at the Sunnyside Officer's Club one afternoon when he bumped into his old buddy, General Luther P. Sow. General Halftrack and General Sow had been friends and rivals ever since they were classmates at West Point. One of them always had to outdo the other.

"Hello, Perky! How are things over at Camp Rally?" General Halftrack asked his pal as they shook hands.

"Well, hello, Skinny!" exclaimed General Sow; Skinny was General Halftrack's nickname. Perky Sow always referred to his friend by his nickname, even though General Halftrack hated it. General Sow constantly teased General Halftrack about his skinny body.

Just because Perky Sow was a portly fellow, he thought that every soldier should have lots of meat on his bones. He believed that fat soldiers were better fighters than thin ones. General Sow believed that an army traveled on its stomach and in order to get good mileage, a soldier's stomach had to be big and round.

"I was just going to have lunch," General Sow announced. "Why don't you join me, Skinny?" he suggested to General Halftrack.

Reluctantly, General Halftrack agreed and followed his round buddy into the dining room. They sat down and a waiter rushed over to take their orders.

"I'll have a ham sandwich and a bowl of alphabet soup," stated General Halftrack as the waiter nodded and scribbled on his note-pad.

"Is that all you're going to have?" stammered

General Sow. "I'm having two steaks, three baked potatoes and a large salad. If all of the soldiers at Camp Swampy eat like you do, Skinny, then we're in big trouble! They couldn't beat a newborn baby in a hand to hand battle," mocked Porky Sow as he prepared to stuff himself.

"I don't agree with your military philosophy, but a Camp Swampy soldier can eat just as much as a Camp Rolly soldier can!" snapped General Halftrack angrily.

"That sounds like a challenge and I accept it!" replied General Sow. "I'll bet that one of my soldiers can eat more than one of your soldiers at a single sitting. The man with the bigger appetite wins!"

"Agreed!" stated General Halftrack. "My soldier and I will meet you here at seven o'clock tomorrow night. Once the food starts frying, let the best man win!" said the General as he hopped out of his chair.

He didn't even wait for the waiter to bring him his lunch. He had to get back to Camp Swampy immediately. He had to find Sergeant Snorkel. If any living soldier at Camp Swampy could eat more than a soldier from Camp Rolly — it was Sergeant Snorkel!

No one in the world knew how much food Sergeant Snorkel's stomach could hold. It had never been filled up. Sergeant Snorkel was a bottomless pit. The Sarge's belly was General Halftrack's ace in the hole.

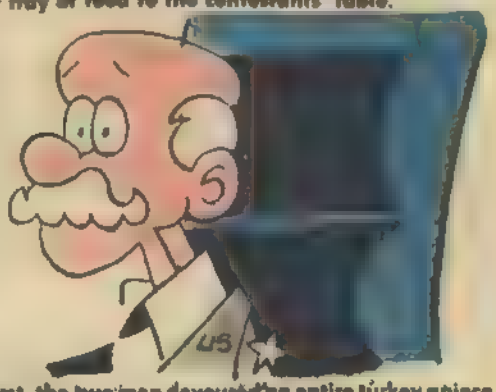
The next evening at exactly seven o'clock, General Halftrack and Sergeant Snorkel strolled into the Officer's Club. General Sow and his chosen champion were already there.

"This is Mess Sergeant Quilliver Gobble," said General Sow as he introduced his fat friend. Sergeant Gobble was a monstrous man. His belly was as big as a Sherman tank, but Sergeant Snorkel wasn't worried. He hadn't eaten all day and his bottomless pit was begging to be filled with food.

"Let's eat! I'm starved!" shouted Sarge Snorkel as his stomach rumbled loudly.

"On your mark! Get set! Eat!" shouted General Halftrack as the two sergeants eagerly picked up their knives and forks.

Instantly, waiter after waiter began to bring tray after tray of food to the contestants' table.



First, the two men devoured an entire turkey apiece. Then, they downed two sides of roast beef. Ham, lamb, spam and jam all vanished from the table as fast as the sergeants could fill their forks.

It was a belly to belly battle right to the very end. It was mouth against mouth and appetite against appetite. Who would win?

Two hours and two hundred pounds of food later, Sergeant Gobble collapsed. He couldn't eat another bite.

Sergeant Snorkel finished off the loaf of bread he was munching on and was immediately declared the winner of the contest.

"Sergeant Snorkel wins! He has the best appetite in the world!" shouted General Halftrack.

"You're the winner, Skinny!" admitted Porky. Sadly, General Sow shook his head as he stared at his exhausted champion.

Happily, General Halftrack congratulated the victorious champion. "What reward would you like?" the General asked Sarge Snorkel. "Name anything and it's yours!"

"Could we stop and get a pizza on the way back to Camp?" asked Sarge Snorkel. "I'm still a little hungry!"

The sport a boy grows up with... shooting a Daisy®

"In training youngsters to play baseball, there is simply no substitute for practice. The same applies to shooting a Daisy B-B gun.

Practice makes you a better shooter. And when you start hitting bullseyes, it gives you a real sense of satisfaction. I know, because I've been hitting bullseyes with Daisy B-B guns for over 35 years.

Now I'm teaching my son Marc to shoot. Right from the start, he's developing coordination and skills that will help him in any sport. At the same time, he's gaining the confidence that will help him grow up to be the man he wants to be."
